BACKGROUND

This Joint Conference emerges from three other ones, at their turn viewed some three decades ago as more focused counterparts of a rather general conference in Bucharest at the Polytechnic Institute.

SINTES 2010 is the 14th edition of the International Conference on System Theory and Control, a scientific gathering, organized by the University of Craiova, whose acronym meant National Symposium of Systems Theory. It is obvious that now its area (the theory and applications of nonlinear, in particular optimal control) is much larger while growing up to an international scale. The starting 3-directions structure (Control, Computers and Instrumentation) is still valid, but completed with fields as Robotics or Mechatronics.

SACCS 2010 is the 10th International Symposium on Automatic Control and Computer Science organized by the Automatic Control and Computer Engineering Faculty from the Technical University of Iasi. Up to now, this symposium was held every three years and had the aim to bring together scientists and researchers from academia and industry in order to present some of their latest ideas and results, covering the most dynamic areas in automatic control and computer science.

SIMSIS 2010 is the 14th edition organized by "Dunarea de Jos" University of Galati, whose acronym means International Symposium on Modelling, Simulation and Identification Systems. It is a traditional scientific event, strongly related to the industrial specific of Galati and its neighbourhoods. Initially, SIMSIS was focused on metallurgical and naval topics thereafter the field of interest became larger, including biotechnological process, robotics and intelligent control.

Since most of the important centers in control of Romania share now almost the same interests, time has come for merging these conferences in a larger one, under the auspices of IEEE Control Systems Society. This conference represents a step ahead on this direction.

PAPERS SUBMISSION

Full papers should be submitted using the online submission system:

<http://www.easychair.org/conferences/?conf=icstc2010>.

The papers will be reviewed by the program committee, and the corresponding author of each paper will be notified of the result by e-mail. All materials must be written in English, and a paper should be submitted only if you intend to present the paper at the conference.

All accepted papers will be published in the conference proceedings, provided that one author has paid the registration fees and that the final paper is produced in due time and following the publication instructions. ## PLACE OF THE CONFERENCE

Sinaia is one of the most famous and oldest mountain tourist resorts in Romania, known as "The Carpathian Pearl". Situated in breathtaking mountain scenery, Sinaia is located at 120 km distance from Bucharest, on the Prahova Valley. The city is officially documented first time around year 1200. Its position, on the valley that connects Muntenia with Transylvania, made of Sinaia an important settlement since old times. The 14th International Conference on System Theory and Control will be hosted by Hotel Palace (<http://www.palace-sinaia.ro/>), built in 1911 and located closely to the downtown and within walking distance to the Peleş Castle (one of the best-preserved royal palaces in Europe; it served as the summer residence of the first king of Romania, Carol I) and the Sinaia Monastery. This stylish hotel is the best choice for pretentious tourists, for conferences and meetings.
